

to follow instructions from books on handicraft as well as furthering their knowledge.

The children enter enthusiastically into the summer program — Vacation Reading Club, when reading for fun is emphasized. An interesting theme for the club is always chosen, and many children are kept reading most of the summer. A reading certificate is the award given to each child who reads a certain number of books. These are presented to them at their respective schools during Book Week.

The library has a good collection of children's recordings, also a record player which is equipped with ear phones so that others are not disturbed while records are being heard. Listening to records is one of the most popular pastimes for the children who come to the library, and a long line forms, as each child waits patiently for his turn to listen.

Requests from pupils for information on subjects in the local school work are many; hence the librarian works in close cooperation with the public schools. Teachers bring their classes into the library for instruction in its use and information on units which they are studying.

For inspirational and instructional purposes, famous authors such as Ellen Tarry, Charlemae Rollins and Peggy Hoffman are presented to the children. Local citizens who have traveled abroad have been asked to share their experiences with the young people.

TOP PHOTO: Story Hour

BOTTOM PHOTO: Hobby Club making cookies from a recipe in Miss B's Cookbook which were served after the author spoke to the group.

